SIX DWELLINGS AT WINONA ARE BURNED TODAY

Bucket Brigade Unable to Save Burning Houses

NO INSURANCE

Houses Property of Coal Company—Origin Unknown—Nearly All Household Goods Saved

Six residence houses at the Winona coal company mining camp were destroyed by fire this morning. The houses were the property of the coal company. The damage is estimated at $6,000. It is reported that there was no insurance.

The fire began at 8:30 o'clock this morning with the burning of the dwelling of Lawrence Roland. The origin of it there is not known, though it may have caught from a defective flue. The fire, fanned by a strong wind, rapidly swept to the other end of the row consuming all the buildings in its wake.

A bucket brigade was formed though the men were powerless to combat the flames which quickly ate into the light framework of the buildings. With the buckets, however, the volunteer workers were able to thoroughly wet the seventh building in the row and stop the conflagration at that point.

The Middlesboro fire department was notified immediately after the outbreak of the fire. R. M. Knipp, fire chief answered the call in a touring car. The fire engine truck was out of order and doubtless could not have been moved there anyway. Some chemicals were used but without success.

Men who lived in the houses were: Lawrence Roland, Lynn Noah, Drew Peters and W. E. Cremeans. The other two houses were unoccupied. The household goods of Mr. Roland were lost in the fire though practically all the furniture and other effects were removed from the other three houses.

The fire which lasted little more than an hour, created considerable excitement in the camp. A number of Middlesboro men, hearing of the conflagration, went to the scene.

PUBLISHER GAINS OVER PINCHOT

Strassburger Favored by Majority for Delegate to National Republican Convention

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 23.—Returns from yesterday's primary election in Pennsylvania today showed additional gains for Ralph Strassburger, Morristown publisher over Governor Pinchot for delegate at large to Republican national convention. Strassburger's majority with 3700 out of 8100 precincts in state counted 203,000.

Royalists Absent From Talks

Associated Press

BUDAPEST, April 23.—The pro-Hapsburg royalista, with the striking exception of the veteran statesman Count Apponyi, have been conspicuous by their absence from the League of Nations hearings regarding the proposed reconstruction plan for Hungary.

Leaders of all parties were invited to appear before the league commission. Count Andrassy and the extreme nationalist group refused, but the Liberals and Social-Democrats sent their spokesmen to present their exactions, which included a secret ballot system in elections, broader suffrage, and other items of their political platforms.

IMMIGRATION PLAN INCLUDES FAMILIES

Wives or Husbands and Unmarried Minor Children to be Admitted

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Apr. 23.—Wives or husbands and unmarried minor children of resident citizens would be admitted into the United States without being counted in the immigration quota of their country, in the report of the Immigration committee of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, whose recommendations are to be made at its convention here May 6-8.

Immigration certificates, or consular quota certificates, would be issued at the monthly rate of one-tenth of the annual quota to prospective immigrants who make formal application and who present credentials showing they are admissible, under another recommendation in the report.

The system of selection would permit entrance to those qualified mentally, morally and physically, regardless of race and nationality. The report says the present quota law, after being modified, should be reenacted for a definite term of years. During this time it proposes that a federal board make a study of the effects of the immigration law both in the United States and abroad.

"This commission also should have power to devise and supervise a method of selective immigration—administration of the law, however, remaining in the immigration service, as at present—and to make recommendations to the President for raising or lowering the quota within limits to be fixed by congress," the report reads.

"The committee believes," continues the report, "the present base year of 1910 should be retained during the brief period of the quota law's extension both in order that experience during the last three years may be comparable with that during the next three to five years, and in order to avoid raising the troublesome question of discrimination."

"Bobbed-hair" Bandit and Husband Face Victims at New York Police Court

Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 23.—Thirteen persons, most of them men, held-up victims, today identified Cecil Cooney as Brooklyn's bob-haired bandit and her husband, Edward Cooney, as her companion in various robberies. The girl, dressed in her familiar seal-skin coat, turban and bead-trimmed dress, and her husband faced the line-up in good spirits in the police station.

Both Cooneys pleaded guilty to robbery in the first degree when arraigned in court later. They refused counsel and were remanded for sentence.

NEWARK, April 23.—The lead of President Coolidge over Senator Hiram Johnson amounted to more than 80,000 today as returns from yesterday's New Jersey preferential primary reported with all but 328 of the state's 2500 precincts reported. Coolidge's lead grew with Johnson candidates decisively.

Jackson Morris in Race for Congress

MANCHESTER, Apr. 23.—Jackson Morris, of Somerset, formerly adjutant general of the state under the Morrow administration announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Eleventh District here Monday night.

The announcement followed an address made to a large court-day crowd before which General Morris stated that he would make the announcement provided the crowd approved.

A standing vote taken on the 800 persons present resulted in all but three endorsing the candidacy. General Morris is the first Republican to announce for the office in the Eleventh District.

Girl Scout Executives Honor Service Workers

CHICAGO, April 22.—Hundreds of women, executives and members of the local councils of the Girl Scouts of America, will come here April 28 for a five-day conference. Mrs Herbert Hoover is president and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is honorary president.

A new budgeting plan, revision of the by laws and special committee reports are among the subjects for discussion.

The conference will close with a rally of the 3,000 Girl Scouts of Chicago and neighboring towns. Mrs. Hoover will present to Chicago girls three golden eaglets, the highest honors possible for a Girl Scout to attain. Special honors will be conferred on a number or community service workers.

Frau Krupp Gives Land for Park

Frost This Morning Not Damaging Says Local Weather Man

Middlesboro people who left the comforts of their bed and arose with the sun this morning was surprised and somewhat dismayed by the appearance of a winter-like frost. B. H. Perkins, local weather observer, says that the frost was a fairly heavy one.

The weatherman brings assurance that the fruit is not in all probability, killed, however, stating that the minimum temperature reached last night was 36. A frost without a freeze does not kill the fruit, he says, and he is of the opinion that no damage has been done.

Prospects for a bumper crop of apples, peaches, and other luscious fruits have been considered very good this season and any infringement of old Boreas on territory that distinctly belongs to his verdant successor will be resented by the public.

BONUS FIGHT ON IN U. S. SENATE

Underwood Declares Men Will Pay Own Bonus By Insurance Policy Plan

WASHINGTON, Apr. 23.—In the opening debate today on soldiers' bonus measure, Senator Underwood renewing his attacks adopted pension law but declared it impossible to compensate former soldiers for services. "You dishonor protectors of our nation by offering them dirty dollars" he said, "or by proposing to give them insurance policies. Men who fought on first line of battle will have to carry this country in next twenty years; you very cunningly fixed this bonus so it won't be paid for twenty years and propose these men instead of you to have to pay it."

Senator Copeland, another speaker said he received messages from soldiers from all parts of the country demanding cash option.

BIG GAIN MADE IN MOTOR LEVY

Kentucky Collections for Five Months to Exceed 1923 Total, Is Prediction

FRANKFORT, Ky., Apr. 23.—Within the next two weeks the total revenue to the state from collections for passenger and motor vehicle licenses will reach and pass the $2,679,369.70 total collected in the calendar year 1923, Colonel N. O. Gray, assistant tax commissioner and head of the state automobile department, predicted today.

"In less than five months $2,553,010.29 has been collected, an increase over the same period of the 1923 calendar year of $438,434.60," Colonel Gray said.

"We lack $126,037.41 of reaching the 1923 figures, with more than seven months remaining. An increase of passenger licenses in 1923 of 30 per cent over 1922 was made and an increase in motor truck licenses issued for 1923 over 1922 of 25 per cent was recorded.

"The approximate increase for the calendar year 1923 over 1922 was about $540,000 and the increase this calendar year will be much greater."

Colonel Gray turned over to Auditor W. H. Shanks today deposits of $80,288.17 for the week ending April 19, an increase over the previous week of $24,860.27. He said he estimates the gross receipts for the calendar year 1924 will be at least $3,400,000. The calendar year is from December 2, 1923, to December 2, 1924.

Sunken Treasure Being Salvaged

Associated Press

LONDON, April 23.—There are now only 134 bars of gold worth $1,200,000 on the wreck of the Laurentic which was sunk during the war, and the salvage ship Racer will shortly endeavo rto recover this, said Commander G. C. C. Damant in the course of a lecture at the Institution of Mechanical engineers.

Four boxes weighing 140 pounds each were recovered in such short time when the work started that it seemed as if operations would be finished in a week. A fierce gale sprang up, however, and the wreck collapsed, making salvage work very difficult. Of the 3,211 bars which went down with the ship, 3,057 have been recovered during operations extending over six summers at a cost of two and one-half per cent.

First Presidential Convention Was Held Over Century Ago

Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 22.—New Yorkers who remember their history are recalling that the first convention for the nomination of a presidential candidate was held in this city. It was convened by the old Federalist party in 1812, and nominated DeWitt Clinton, then Lieutenant-Governor of the state, to head the party ticket. Clinton received 89 electoral votes to 219 for James Madison.

Previous to this Federalist convention, unpretentious forerunner of the great gathering of the Democratic party which takes place here next month, the methods of appraising presidential timber were comparatively simple. Indeed, until the election of 1800 there were no nominations.

In 1789 Washington was the choice of the electors provided by the machinery of the new constitution and "the Father of his country" was again selected in 1792. After John Adams had served his term ,however, party divisions began to be manifest, and in 1800 the first congressional caucuses for the selection of the chief executive and vice-president were held, with the result that Jefferson became president after the House of Representatives had been called upon to break the tie between him and Aaron Burr. The congressional caucus method prevailed in 1804 and 1808, although there had as yet been no platform and no convention.

However, the Federalist convention of 1812 did not serve to commit the parties to that system of making nominations, and it was not until the election of 1832 that all the presidential candidates were named in this manner.

The Aanti-Masonic party, first in the field, met at Baltimore in September, 1830, adjourning until September 26, 1831, on which date the delegates reassembled in the same city, nominating William Wirt of Virginia for the presidency.

Both the Whig and Democratic parties also held their conventions for the 1832 election at Baltimore, the former meeting on December 12, 1831, the latter on May 21, 1832, naming respectively Henry Clay and Andrew Jackson.

In those days Baltimore was most easily accessible of any city of the country; in fact it remained the favorite convention city until the development of the railways through what is now the middle west.

HUNGARIAN'S FUTURE DEPENDS ON LEAGUE PLAN

PROTOCOLS SIGNED

Six Powers Will Respect Territorial Integrity and Its Sovereignty

By Associated Press.

GENEVA, Apr. 23.—Because of the complicated political problems involved, the completion of the League of Nations plan for the reconstruction of Hungary has given the greatest satisfaction in league circles. It is regarded as the hardest task the league has tackled.

As difinitely launched the plan is very similar to that applied in Austria. This, according to all reports, is working satisfactorily toward the financial rehabilitation of the country.

The Hungarian protocols are two in number. The first is of a political nature. It is signed by seven powers, Great Britain, France, Italy, Roumania, the Serb-Croat-Slovene State, Ezecho-slovakia, and Hungary. The governments of the first six states declare that they will respect the political independence, territorial integrity and sovereignty of Hungary, and that they will not seek any special economic or financial advantages that might compromise that independence.

The Hungarian government, on the other hand, undertakes to fulfil the obligations contained in the Treaty of Trianon, in particular the military clauses, as well as its other international engagements. It is to be understood that Hungary maintains her freedom in the matter of customs tariffs and commercial or financial agreements provided she shall not grant to any state a special regime calculated to threaten this independence.

All the powers declare that they will abstain from all acts which might be contrary to the economic and financial reconstruction of Hungary or might prejudice the interests of the creditors.

In the second protocol, which is signed only by the Hungarian government, the latter undertakes to draw up in collaboration with the delegation of the council, a program of reform and reconstruction which will assure budget equilibrium on a sound and durable basis by June 30, 1926. The government will ask parliament to give it the full powers necessary to carry out that program. The Hungarian government will issue a loan of 250,000,000 gold crowns to cover its deficits during the reconstruction period until the budget is balanced

As security for the loan a first charge will be made upon the gross revenues from the customs, the sugar tax, the tobacco monopoly, and the net revenue from the salt monopoly.

Hungary accepts the appointment of a commissioner-general to be appointed by the council of the league, who will reside at Budapest. It will be his duty to supervise the execution of the reform program. The yield of the loan and of the mortgaged revenues will be paid into special accounts controlled by the commissioner-general, and his functions will come to an end when the council shall have ascertained that the financial stability of Hungary is assured.

A central bank of issue will be created in collaboration with the delegation of the council. The statutes of the bank will ensue its complete autonomy towards the Hungarian government. The commissioner-general will nominate an adviser to the bank, to be appointed by the Hungarian government.

NOTED EDITOR OF TENNESSEE DEAD

G. F. Milton, Formerly With Knoxville Sentinel, Dies at Murfreesboro

Associated Press

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., April 23.—George Fort Milton, 55, owner of the Chattanooga Evening News, and one of the best known men in business and politics in Tennessee, died suddenly of heart disease here today.

Mr Milton lived in Kentucky for many years. He took over The Knoxville Sentinel when it was a small paper and built it into one of the big newspaper properties of the state. He was held in the highest esteem by the people of that city and it was with great regret that Knoxville gave him up to Chattanooga several years ago.

While a citizen of Knoxville and editor and publisher of The Sentinel he took an active interest in the affairs of the city and was always ready to aid in plans for the betterment of the city.

About three weeks ago he was in Knoxville and delivered an address at Market Hall in the interest of the campaign for the presidential nomination he was managing in the state of Tennessee.

News of Mr. Milton's suden death will be received with great regret by his hundreds of friends in Knoxville and throughout the state.

Seventeen members of two committees desired time and place changed. He said he would try and answer all protests and indicated he would have letters for publication tonight.

Smokestack Arouses Rothenburg's Ire

By Associated Press.

ROTHENBURG, Bavaria, Apr. 23.—Rothenburgers are up in arms because the town council has granted a factory the right to erect a smokestack 200 feet high in the center of this picturesque medieval city which is regarded as Germany's most perfectly preserved ancient town.

Hitherto there has not been a discordant note in this old walled city. It stands just as it was in the days when Tilly entered in during the Thirty Years' War, and is one of the most popular Bavarian centers for tourists.

Rothenburg stands on a high hill and the residents insist that the factory might much better be located in the valley beneath it, where the smokestack would not break the skyline of picturesque roofs and sombre towers.

"Fishing" to Begin at Canada Peak Well

Operations at the Canada Peak Oil well have been temporarily halted pending the arrival of some "fishing tools" with which to recover some tools which were dropped into the well recently when the rope broke. The tools were expected to arrive this afternoon.

The drillers are now in the state over the Jones sand. Oil in small quantities has been found and has been taken out with the water. The water is being eased off and the well will be made much deeper when drilling is resumed.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, April 22.—Veterans from the Yukon territory who mushed into the Ketchikan district recently were optimistic about the importation of 24 buffaloes from Wainwright Park, Alberta, to a game preserve in central Yukon. They predicted that within a few years the raising of these buffaloes would be as profitable to the Yukon as the reindeer industry has become to northern Alaska.

PICTURE OF SAINT IN PARLIAMENT

St. Patrick Last of Four to be Placed In Panel

Associated Press

LONDON, April 23.—The last of the four mosaic panels which adorn the central hall of the Houses of Parliament, representing the four kingdoms, England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, has been completed.

The panel protrays St. Patrick for Ireland and is the work of R. Anning Bell, R. A. The unveiling took place on St. Patrick's Day and was attended by the Irish members of bothe Houses.

Four great arched panels were set aside for the purpose when the building was erected, and the intention of the architect that the work of filling them in should be done by posterity has taken just 100 years to be realized

The first panel which represents St. George for England was completed in 1870, St. David for Wales in 1908, and St. Andrew for Scotland last year.

Aged Cow Sets Mark

CHICAGO, April 22.—Grace Koningen, a Holstein-Friesian cow owned by the Montana State College of Agriculture, has set a new record for milk production by a cow 10 years old or over. In one year the champion produced 32,294.4 pounds of milk and 1051 pounds of butter fat. That is enough milk to fill a row of quart bottles one mile long.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ARKANSAS

Reference recently has been made by the pay-as-you-go advocates, to the "deplorable situation in Arkansas."

This is apparently done with the idea that Arkansas has had a State road bond issue and has been regretting it ever since. Arkansas has never had a state road bond issue nor is the situation there in the remotest degree comparable to any state which has had such a bond issue. If it had such a bond issue, it would be much better off today than is the case.

On February 28, 1923, State Highway Engineer R. C. Limerick, connected with the department of state lands, highways and improvements, wrote the Kentucky Good Roads Association, as follows:

"Practically all of our improved roads have been built by special improvement districts organized for the purpose. These districts are organized so as to permit the sale of bonds, which are paid off by the annual assessment of taxes based on the benefits derived by the real estate. The improvement district area usually includes that territory within three miles of either side of the improvement and the real estate bears the whole cost. To my mind the plan has not been altogether a satisfactory one, although the best that could be done under our constitution. Several of the weaknesses are that each district is handled independently with an untrained set of Commissioners, the district is not required to work under state supervision and the benefits are not always assessed equitably.

"Personally, I think that the best plan to build roads is by an ad valorem state tax levied to pay off state bonds which are to be used for construction. Where the revenue derived from the gasoline tax and the motor vehicle tax produces a surplus above that required for maintenance, this surplus might be used for a bond issue.

"I am sending under separate cover a copy of our biennial report, from which I hope you might be able to get some information. You will note in studying this report that the state does not have direct control of maintenance. An effort is being made to secure such a control through the present legislature, as I am convinced that the only satisfactory way to handle it is by the state highway department. Now, the money available for maintenance is procured from a mileage tax in the various counties from the automobile and gasoline tax and a county per capita tax."

THE MIRACLE OF SPRING

When man feels that he may safely leave at home his overcoat a sense of emancipation is experienced. It is the adult's milder realization of the joy of a boy when he is permitted to leave off shoes and stockings and go in his bare feet. If under the conditions in which we live we welcome the arrival of spring, how much more enthusiastic must have been the greeting which primitive man in cold climates gave to the warm sun.

In this age, with furnace-heated houses, we have done much to remove the unpleasant features of winter. We are able to be fairly comfortable no matter what the state of the weather. But, with all that, spring never finds its advent unwelcome, come it early or late. Possibly this is a resurgence in us of the spirit of joy felt by your primitive forebears who shivered in ill-heated caves or shacks. To them, to be comfortable once more was like a return to life.

There is something about the revival of dormant nature in cold latitude that people in the tropics miss, and it is well worth having. No matter how often one has witnessed the return of the sun, the bursting bud, the greening grass never becomes stale. It is the manifestation of a miracle that is ever marvelous. It's worth a few months of ice and cold winds and is the more enjoyable because of the contrast.

The odor of the freshly turned soil is perfume to the nostrils. That's why there is enthusiasm for gardening among amateurs. One who isn't eager to dig in the dirt, even if only with a golf club, has something the matter. The urge may not persist when the sun becomes hotter, but it is a manifestation of the spirit of spring in adults just as surely as flying kite or playing ball is with boys. Each season has its atavistic impulses and we are subservient to them though more so in the spring because that caused more ado among our barbaric ance-tors, since it meant a release from a form of imprisonment.—The Knoxville Sentinel.

BILLBOARD BAN ON PACIFIC COAST

Skyline Boulevard Reported Insured Against Erection of Them

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—Definite steps by civic organizations to eliminate billboards from the highways of the Pacific coast are expected to result from the impetus given the movement by the Standard Oil company of California, which has torn down 1,200 of its roadway signs in California, Oregon and Washington.

The company removed its highway advertisements on the ground that they detracted from the beauty of the roads, and ordered that hereafter such signs should be confined to commercial zones.

"There was an instant public response up and down the coast," said Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of the company. We have had editorials, letters and telegrams by the hundreds indicating that a keen feeling exists concerning the marring of our great highways by signs."

The Skyline Boulevard, a great highway being completed from San Francisco southward along the high ridges overlooking the Pacific ocean, is reported to be insured against billboards.

Civic organizations all over the west have adopted resolutions commending the stand taken by the Standard Oil company and calling on other organizations to eliminate highway signs.

PUTTERING AROUND

Hal Cochran's Daily Poem

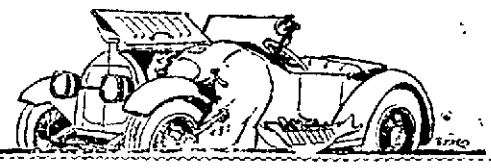
THE family gets set for an afternoon out. The auto is oiled up and gassole. The kids clamor in with a whoop and a shout and everything's ready at last.

Then dad takes the crank and he gives it a spin. He's greeted with rattling and clatter. Then engine is stubborn, it just won't begin, and gosh only knows what's the matter.

So mother just sits while the youngsters throw fits and dad takes the tools from the rack. There's plenty of frettin' while father is gettin' right down to what's holdin' them back.

It's tinker with this and it's tinker with that, perhaps till the day's mostly done. The engine is fixed—then a tire goes flat when the auto is ready to run.

The family was set for an afternoon grand to go a par-pottering 'round. But dad did his puttering, not as he planned, but with both his feet on the ground.



HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Apr. 23.—"Watch out for the women. They have something besides their arms up their sleeves."

This is the warning that has gone out to political managers who, from force of habit, are devoting most of their time to scanning the campaign horizon from a purely masculine viewpoint.

Undercover whisperings in feminine organizations, however, have penetrated to the ears of political scouts and an alarm has been sounded to look out for a surprise attack and to arm for the emergency.

For some weeks there has been a growing suspicion that women were up to something, but just what it was remained in doubt. Recently a runner arrived with a breathless story of a plan by the ladies to kidnap the vice presidency at the Republican convention.

Conceding that Coolidge has the presidential nomination already sewed up, the women will be content, for this time, with second place on the ticket, but they will make a real and earnest fight for that. At least so the story ran.

"All bunk," they tell you at both Republican and Democratic headquarters. Those are quotes for publication. Privately, they'll inquire most earnestly if you think there's anything to it. If so, who's behind it? And do you really think they're serious?

Now I happen to know that this manner of demanding the vice presidency for a woman has been discussed at the headquarters of one of the largest national woman's organizations. And it was discussed seriously. Not seriously in the sense that anyone expected either party to play the courtly gallant and immediately name a woman for second place on its ticket this year, but seriously from the viewpoint that if woman ever it to be in line for a place on the presidential or vice presidential ticket a start will have to be made, and that now is as good a time as any for said start.

Two women suggested as possible nominees on the Republican side are Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Ohio, chairman of the woman's section of the Republican National Committee, and Mrs. Maude Wood Park, president of the National League of Women Voters.

Leadership in the latter organization might be a handicap, inasmuch as the organization is pledged against taking sides between parties or endorsing specific candidates. Its function is to stimulate women's interest in politics generally and to endorse causes, not candidates.

However, Mrs. Park is retiring as president at the end of her present term, which concludes this month. This retirement would remove any embarrassment in "accepting" the vice presidential plum, should such be tendered.

Should the Republicans reject this leap-year proposal by the ladies to let them share the responsibilities of high office—as even the proponents of the plan expect they will—there yet remains the Democratic convention where a similar proposition can be tried. In fact, the odds in favor of acceptance by the Democrats might be considered better than by the Republicans, since the Democratic convention will have a much larger feminine representation among the delegates.

Emily Newell Blair, chairman of the National Democratic Women's Committee, would be the likely choice for such a test at the New York convention.

A third "possibility" discussed in connection with the "woman-for-vice-president" move, on the Republican side, is Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Progressive Republican governor of Pennsylvania.

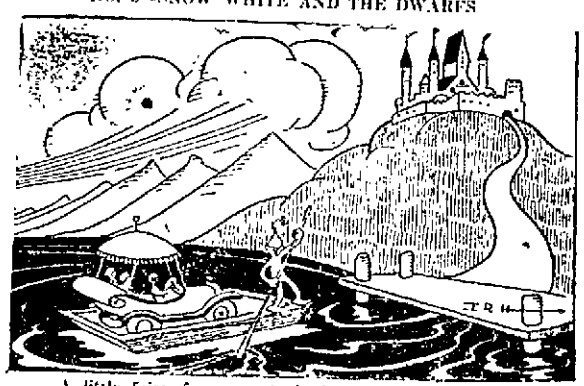
Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 5—SNOW WHITE AND THE DWARFS



A little fairy ferryman took them across seven lakes.

The next place in Once-Upon-a-Time Land that Mister Muggs took the Twins in his magic automobile was to see Snow White.

The prince had built her a glass castle and there they had lived happily ever after—just as the story said.

They crossed seven islands and a little fairy ferryman took them across seven lakes, and there stood Snow White's castle.

Glad to see them! Why, she nearly fell out of her window with joy when she saw them coming, for ever since her wicked stepmother had died the prince had been very, very particular about strangers coming to the castle, and Snow White was getting lonely, as the prince was out hunting so much.

She ran down stairs and let them in herself before the servant could say that nobody was at home to callers that day.

"How do you do?" she said in a silvery voice, kissing everybody even ugly little Mister Muggs, who had to hold onto a chair he was so surprised.

"We're all very well, thank you," said Nick, "and we came to see if there is anything you need to make you happy."

"Oh, thank you!" cried Snow White. "There is just one thing! I would like to know if my seven dwarfs are well. They live in yonder mountains and they work hard all day. I am so afraid they won't have anybody to cook for them when they come home tired at night—or make their beds—or mend their clothes."

"Would you like to see them?" asked Mister Muggs. "Because my magic automobile will take you there in a jiffy, if you do."

"I don't know what a jiffy is," laughed Snow White. "But if it isn't too long, I'll go. The prince won't be home for three days and I'm sure he will think it's all right for me to go when I'm in such safe company."

So all four of them got into the tiny car and away it started for the blue mountains in the distance.

By and by they came to the house where the dwarfs lived.

They knocked on the door, but as nobody came, they pushed it open and stepped in.

"Why, it looks exactly the same!" cried Snow White. Then she stopped suddenly, for there on the table were the unwashed breakfast dishes, the bedroom was all in disorder and the seven little beds were completely topsy-turvy. The clothes that hung on the pegs needed mending and all the floors needed a good scrubbing.

"Let's get to work and fix it up for them," cried Nancy.

"A fine idea!" declared Mister Muggs. "It is only 10 o'clock and we have all day."

And when the dwarfs came back the little house looked as though fairies had been at it—as indeed they had. But the visitors had gone, for the dwarfs were shy and afraid of company.

"I'm coming every week and look after them," said Snow White. "I'm sure the prince won't mind."

Bewitching Chorus With "My China Doll"

LeComte and Flesher, creditably responsible for several erstwhile musical comedy successes and for this season's sensational hit, "My China Doll," which is booked at the Mauring Theatre Monday, April 28th, faithful to their convictions that beauty always appeals, have plunged, with apparent unheeding of expense, in their gathering of a chorus this year that outshines all of their past, and promises to out-beauty any and all competitor's galaxy of pretty maidens.

Like Mr. Ziegfield, George Cohan and a few other students of the charms, feminine, Charles George, stage director for LeComte and Flesher, knows the public's wants and faithfully fulfills his firm's request to secure only girls of beauty and grace for the big ballets and ensembles.

The whole endeavor has been to mark for all time, the firm's standard of musical comedy production, and, it is gratifying to state that their commentators have been most liberal in their praise, while the public have endorsed with generous patronage.

Pupils of the London elementary schools have the use of a traveling library of 2,000,000 books.

COMPROMISE IS THE LIFE OF FASHION

He—and more especially she—who knows how to compromise is never lost. And this is particularly true when applied to the realm of fashion. The maiden in this picture found that the distinctly boyish type of blouse did not suit her pensive and languid type, but of course she wanted to be fashionable, so she and her modiste put their heads together—and evolved this charming blouse, which conforms to the tailored mode in its simplicity while yet retaining a great deal of feminine softness.

It is developed in soft biscuit colored Chiney Crepe and achieves its trimming by strips of sewn pleats back and front, and by two bands of pleats horizontally placed, forming a sort of border. The collar and cuffs are knotted with narrow bands of the same crepe, forming a charming little novel note to the blouse. The blouse slips on over the head, this being made quite easy by the deep opening.

TAKE RADIO TO CURE YOUR NERVES! PHYSICIAN PRESCRIBES "DOSES" MUSIC

BY H. A. FREDERICKS
NEA Service Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23. Radio soon may join the ranks of pill, scalpel and tonic as a curative, especially for her ous cases.

This is the declaration of Dr. Wallace H. Barnes, local physician and surgeon, and clinical instructor of medicine at the Stanford University Medical school.

"Utilization of radio music by doctors first occurred to me as the result of personal phenomena," Dr. Barnes explains.

"I have been a radio fan for years, of late I noticed a decided reaction to certain kinds of music. Also that music which one evening would cheer would, the next evening, depress.

"After several months I found I could 'tune' myself with amazing accuracy to accord with my mood."

Tonic for Moods

Dr. Barnes decided to profit by this in his work. He installed a radio receiving set in his office, made careful daily study of the broadcasting programs, diagnosed the mood which he wished to correct and tuned in on the proper "tonic."

"The results were marvelous," he declares. "Intensive days, which formerly would have completely worn me out now could be got through with a minimum of fatigue.

"Also, for the sake of experimentation, I would sometimes cut in on numbers which had the effect of increasing an unwelcome mood, and found that they did so to a marked degree."

Patients "Prepared"

Dr. Barnes continued his research by applying it to patients. In cases where he knew the history of the ailment, he would, when necessity demanded a wait in the ante-room, tune in on music which would have an antitotal effect.

"The result was that patients, formerly hysterical, would enter my office calmly and would even go through minor operations, which they would not previously have faced without an anaesthetic. Of course, this was not true in all cases, as some persons seem incapable of more than a negligible reaction to music."

Dr. Barnes now commenced a systematic study of „type" reaction to music, in addition to "mood" reaction. He has carried this to the point where he now feels capable of "prescribing" music for certain patients, and in specified doses.

"For instance, I have advised several highly nervous persons to plug in on only the most soothing music and to switch off whenever the program calls for music of a highly stimulative nature.

"Others, subject to lethargic depression, I have advised to take frequent and strong 'doses' of jazz. Still others I have directed to 'take' jazz until they feel certain reactions, then to follow with quieter numbers."

Try It On Self

Dr. Barnes would not undertake to prescribe for types.

"My experiments have been sethoscopic and by testing of blood pressure," he explained. "But general results can be obtained by the individual if he will keep careful reckoning of his moods, changes and subsequent reactions."

Dr. Barnes hails the advent of the radio as the probable antidote to the increasing nervousness of the country.

While most of our inventions—autos, airships, and such—tend to increase the speed of life, with consequent increased nervousness, radio, properly utilized, will be counter-active, he believes.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

DAILY MENU FOR THE STOUT AND THIN

Lose Weight

One-half cup cooked wheat cereal, 4 tablespoons corned beef hash on toast, 1-2 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup diet bean soup, 1 cup canned spring beans with 1 slice bacon, 4 spring onions, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 2 tablespoons boiled custard with 1 tablespoon beaten egg white (floating island), 1 bran roll, 2 tablespoons canned strawberries, 1 piece whole wheat bread, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1193. Protein, 247; fat, 278; carbohydrate, 668. Iron, .0178 gram.

While this menu sounds rather beany you won't find it so when you come to eat it. The navy beans used for the soup are rich in protein and carbohydrate. The string beans are valuable for their mineral salts and bulk. And as for repeating flavors, which is never done in the best menus, navy bean soup and canned string beans haven't a taste in common.

This menu is a follow-up of the preceding menu planned for the person independent of the city markets.

Any of the tender edible weeds can be substituted for the shredded cabbage. Some sort of uncooked green, like lettuce and cabbage, should be used, every day. Some vitamins are lost by drying and canning, so try to include something fresh in your diet.

Gain Weight

One cup cooked wheat cereal, 3 large stewed figs, 2 tablespoons hashed brown potatoes, 1 poached egg, 4 tablespoons corned beef hash on toast, 1-2 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup bean soup, 3 ounces ham, 2 tablespoons mashed potatoes, 1 cup canned string beans with 4 tablespoons cabbage with 4 tablespoons cream dressing, 4 tablespoons floating island, 2 2-inch squares corn bread split and toasted, 4 tablespoons maple sirup, 1 bran roll, 2 tablespoons canned strawberries, 1-6 caramel custard pie, 2 pieces whole wheat bread, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 pint whole milk, 1-2 cup cream, 2 teaspoons sugar.

Total calories, 4273. Protein, 195; fat, 1718; carbohydrate, 1997. Iron, .0188 gram.

Try drinking a cup of hot milk or a hot egg-nog at night, just before bedtime. This will not only rest tired nerves and help you sleep but will do much toward making you fat.

Cream is more easily digested and quickly assimilated than butter, so the woman on a farm will do well to use cream for seasoning her vegetables, not only for herself but the whole family. When cream is used for seasoning more salt is necessary as butter contributes some salt.

Children Are Now Teaching Town New Community Ideals

PORT HURON, Mich., April 23.—School children are making Port Huron a model city.

Boys and girls of 11 and 15 are teaching the "grownups" lessons in community betterment.

Last year pupils in the public school built a house, then furnished it from attic to cellar with furniture they made themselves.

But this year they hope to do even better. They'll erect and equip another house, then convert it into a laboratory for further study.

Make Furniture

Miss Elizabeth Carlisle, director of the department of civics at Washington Junior high school, is the guiding spirit. She does most of the planning.

Architectural drawings are furnished free by an interested group of architects. Materials are furnished by the Port Huron business men.

The children talk before the civic organizations and obtain their aid. Then divided into teams, the boys make the furniture, while the girls weave rugs, sew linen and prepare other household necessities.

This year's home is being put up on the school campus. The city is excavating the ground. The Chamber of Commerce is furnishing the brick and contracting firms are giving what they can for its construction.

Labor unions are working with the boys, and directing the actual building operations.

Profit for Charity

When finished, the house will be turned over to community uses. Meetings will be held there. The girls will use the kitchen for their cooking classes, and the boys will keep the place in shape.

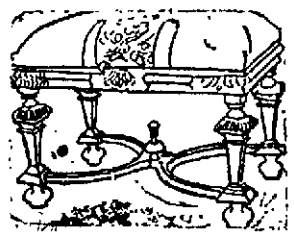
"This is the way I expect to teach them good citizenship," explains Miss Carlisle.

"The children are learning community civics from life. The model home gives them a wonderful opportunity for service.

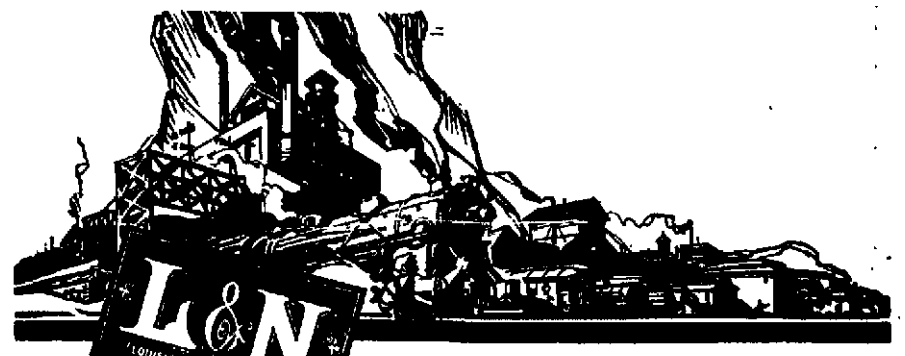
"Completion of the house by no means ends their services. Last year, for instance, after the house had been sold, they had a surplus of $233.

"That went to charity."

PERIOD FURNITURE LOUIS XIV



This style existed in France about the time of William and Mary and Queen Anne in England. It was the beginning of the Rococo style, a return to nature, in which every line is a graceful curve. To the last years of Louis XIV furniture was the most magnificent, massive and ornamented of all seventeenth century varieties. But the fall of his rule also brought a reaction in furniture and other decorations. Pomp and splendor gave way to simplicity and gracefulness of line. This period therefore shows highly decorative, gorgeous pieces, as the stool above, and later has examples of simplicity and gracefulness.



PROGRESS
In 1923 and Part of Its Program for 1924

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad shows in the accompanying comparative figures a few of its outstanding accomplishments in 1923—the banner year of its performance:

	1923	1922	Increase
Tons of freight handled	57,460,190	48,890,798	17.5%
Passengers carried 1 mile	767,475,053	669,328,572	14.7%
Tons of coal handled	30,308,989	27,374,688	10.7%
Cost of operation	$115,702,530	$103,502,493	11.7%
Value of materials used	33,379,764	28,696,080	16.3%
Railway taxes	6,372,310	4,686,148	35.9%

This unprecedented record shows the great value of the L. & N. in aiding the business development of the territory which it serves.

In addition, the L. & N's improvement work for 1923 and its program so far developed for 1924, evidence its purpose to keep abreast with the growing needs of the times.

In 1923 the L. & N. spent $31,635,463 for new work. Its 1924 program embraces construction of various roadway improvements and the acquisition of 42 new locomotives, 5,115 new freight cars and 60 new passenger cars—making a total expenditure of $33,147,846.

It is believed that this splendid record will be appreciated by the public and should induce such fair-minded consideration and co-operation as will aid the L. & N. in its further progressive development and its constant effort to give even better service to the people of the South.

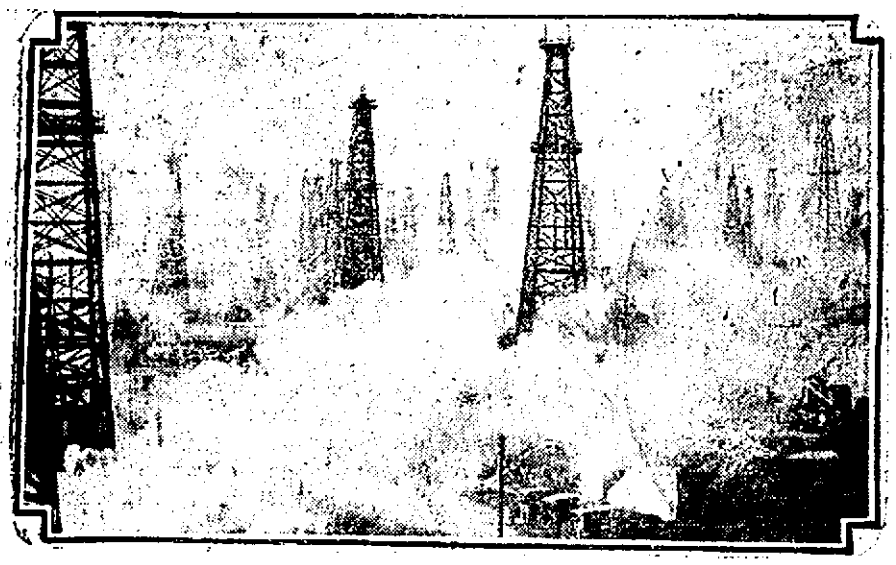
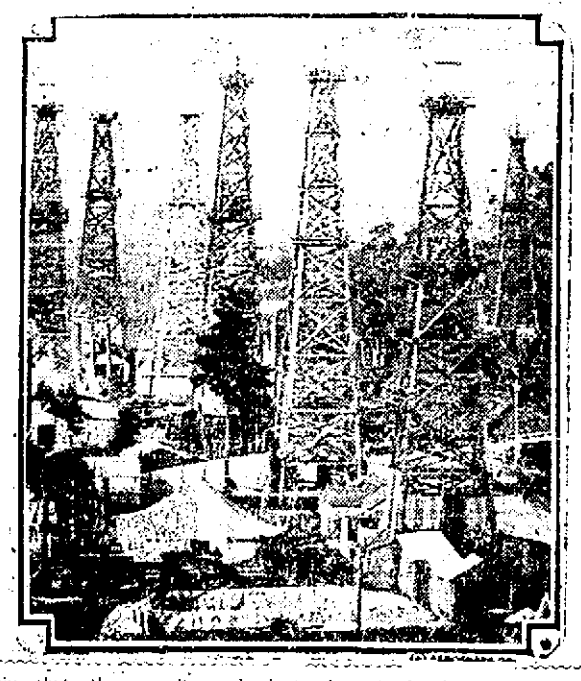
SAYS AMERICA IS WASTING HER OIL AS RECKLESSLY AS IS WASTING TIMBER





THESE PICTURES SHOW HOW KEEN COMPETITION IS IN THE OIL FIELDS. THE TOP SHOWS A FOREST OF DERRICKS IN THE LONG BEACH (CALIF.) DISTRICT, ONE OF THE GREATEST OIL FIELDS IN THE COUNTRY. THE BOTTOM ONE GIVES A GOOD IDEA OF HOW THE DERRICKS HAVE BEEN CRAMMED TOGETHER BY TOWN-LOT DRILLERS. THERE'S ONE TO EVERY TOWN LOT IN PARTS OF THE LONG BEACH FIELD.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Apr. 23.—America is wasting er oil as recklessly as she is wasting her timber. Her present more or less visible supply will last about 20 years more.

By "visible" is meant the oil which actually has been "located" or which geologists are practically sure of.

That any important additions will be made to it is more than unlikely, for as the Geological Survey says, "a large part of the territory in the United States that may possibly contain oil has been studied and 'wildcatting' has spread through 'prospective' into many regions of 'possible' and even 'impossible' territory."

Oil Is Important

As with timber, the period of oil scarcity already is here.

"The country's annual production," points out the Geological Survey, "is now almost half a billion barrels but the annual consumption is well beyond the half million mark, and still growing. For some years we have had to import oil."

And experts believe we have passed the production peak.

Again, as with timber, authorities don't mean to say that we shall arrive, literally, at a given date in 1944 after which there will be no more oil —that every flivver will have to be scrapped for lack of fuel.

Estimates are based on the amount of oil recoverable from the ground by present methods. It remains to be seen what can be accomplished by new ones. Thus far, however, the Geological Survey says they can be regarded only "as in the experimental stage." Besides, while those which are being experimented with may prove satisfactory in some districts, it has been demonstrated already that they won't work in others.

In short, the Geological Survey finds little comfort in these suggestions of additions to the now visible domestic oil supply, considering that "the United States is already absolutely dependent on foreign countries to eke out her own production and if the foreign oil can be procured, this dependence is sure to grow greater and greater as our fields wane."

Oil Is Wasted

Oil, once gone, is gone forever.

Now, how is oil wasted?

A good deal is lost by fire, but that's accidental—inexcusable perhaps but not deliberate.

Then there's a heavy loss of the by-product gas—which might be saved by capping the wells, and used for fuel. In the great majority of cases no such attempt is made.

But the greatest loss is due to competitive drilling.

The oil-bearing sand lies in the ground in layers. The bottom layer is richest. The drill of course penetrates the top layer first. The yield isn't what it will be as the drill goes deeper, but it's worth having. The top layer having been exhausted, the well goes on down, through layer after layer, the yield growing richer and richer, until the richest of all, at the bottom, is reached.

The cream of the deposit is skimmed off the bottom and everything else is wasted.

Half Lost

How much oil is lost in this way? Nothing like exact figures are available, but Harry Slattery of the National Conservation Association "guesses" half of it—until very recently. The waste isn't quite so great now. Conservationists have checked it somewhat. But it's still very large.

How much oil there was in the ground when drilling first began in the United States is uncertain. No records were kept in the early days. Geologists generally put the figure around 20 billion barrels. Less than half that much is left. But for what was wasted, there'd be 29 billion barrels today, instead of 9 billion. And needless to say, consumption during the early years of the industry wasn't a fraction what it is now.

But still we're wasting.

Planned for May 11 Sunday School Rally

The Middlesboro View Sunday school has invited members of Sunday school in nearby sections of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia to be present at the grand children's reunion which will take place Sunday, May 11, at Boone's monument on the mountain. Dinner will be served on the ground, all being invited to bring lunch.

The following program has been arranged for the reunion which will begin at 9:50 a. m. and continue throughout the morning and afternoon:

"Ours is on the Army of Progress"—J. A. Fulton.

"Uprise Progress of Sunday School"—Rev. J. R. Barnwell.

"To Be a Christian"—Rev. Floyd Sandifer.

"To Live a Better Life"—Rev. William Marcum.

"Prepare to Meet Thy God"—Rev. Thomas Marcum.

"Kindness"—Rev. Sam Brock.

Local Boy Attaining Honors as Marksman

Private Rufus H. Ball, son of Huston E. Ball of Middlesboro, is serving with the Tenth United States Infantry which is stationed at Camp Knox, in connection with the summer training camps. The Tenth Infantry, which is one of the oldest regiments in the army is at present participating in its annual target practice. The high score attained by Private Ball on the target range has caused the old timers to sit up and take notice of his ability to shoot straight, according to a communication from his commanding officer. Many predict that with a little more training this young and popular soldier is certain to develop into a crack shot. Private Ball has chosen one of the old regiments in the army to serve his next enlistment and is well pleased with same. He has been in the service only a few months.

To Open Tea Room

Preparations are being made by Mrs. Guy Wilson to open a tea room in the new building at the west of the Brosheer-Brummett hospital building. It will be known as "Betty Ray's Tea Shoppe." It will be open for business as soon as the interior work is finished which should be within a few days. The establishment will cater to the party trade, sewing clubs and will specialize in business mens' dinners.

Field Events Draw Southern Athletes to Crampton Bowl

Associated Press

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 23.—Track and field representatives of the major Dixie colleges will gather here for the second annual Southern Conference field play, May 9 and 10

Last year some 150 athletes representing 15 southern colleges and universities vied for two days in Cramton Bowl here, and the meet was declared successful from every standpoint. A bigger affair is the forecast of local officials for the event this spring, with virtually all of the 22 conference members, ranging in territory from the shores of Chesapeake Bay on the north to the Louisiana bayous on the south, said to be coming.

Mississippi A. & M. college of Starkville, winner of 1923, is said again to be strong with Gatchell, weight man, and the javelin throwing ace, Priester.

Louisiana State university, runner-up for the Georgia Tech challenge trophy in 1922, is another flashy squad that is entering, while a conference newcomer in Sewanee is strong. The Purple Tigers of the little mountain institution have always in the past sent forth a husky team of track and field men.

A number of experts of southern sports, in betting a dark horse for the event, list their vote toward Clemson. The South Carolina college last spring sent to Mobtgomery a promising crew, and probably will be in better trim this year.

Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, and Maryland in 1922 points [illegible] several years and are to be recalled this year [illegible] agreed. Especially did Whitelaw, [illegible] Georgia [illegible] the javelin, clinch honors with Priester.

Other [illegible] expected include Alabama university, University of Georgia, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, University of Florida, University of Mississippi, Tulane, Kentucky, University of Virginia, V. M. I., V. P. I., Washington and Lee and the University of Tennessee.

Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the western conference, has been invited to attend the southern track gathering as an honorary referee.

Men showing well in the southern meet this spring will be allowed to compete in the Olympic finals at Boston without having to enter the district tryouts.

Final Credit Rating Cards Being Made

Final transcription of the credit rating records of the Middlesboro Merchants' Association are now being made. That part of the work which has been completed has been very neatly and efficiently done, reflecting great care and attention to detail on the part of the compilers.

Not only are local credit customers rated in the book but also residents of Pineville, Cumberland Gap and other places in this vicinity who have ever done a credit business with any member of the organization. The records are in loose-leaf form and each member will be furnished a copy when they are finished.

Five Boys Enlist

Five enlistments for the army were secured here Monday by Sgt. J. D. Miller, who is still far in the lead in the district recruiting contest. The boys who enlisted, all of them from Fort Ridge and Pineville, are: Oscar Elliott, John L. Smith, Robert Johnson, Alf Davis and Bron Gray. The three first named were assigned to the Tenth Infantry at Fort Thomas while the others were sent to the Second Artillery at Fort Riley.

The visiting card is of Chinese origin.

Such popularity must be deserved

POPULARITY isn't luck. How well the big stars of baseball know this.

And in merchandising as in baseball, big success is scored only by deserving it. A product, too, must "deliver the goods."

WHITE HOUSE GRASS NONE TOO GOOD FOR SPECK SAYS DAVIS

TOPEKA, Kans April 23 When Jonathan M Davis, dirt farmer governor, moved into the executive mansion here two years ago he favorite cow, Speck began grazing on the state capitol lawn

Now Kansansare wondering whether Speck will get to feast upon the White House grass.

For Davis is in the race for the Democratic nomination The Kansas state Democratic convention put him in it

Davis, though primarily a farmer, has been in politics practically ever since he left college His first job was in the legislature Later he was in the state senate

But in 1922 when he announced his gubernatorial candidacy, the politicians did not take him seriously He wasn't discouraged, though

He campaigned all over the state in his flivver, hobnobbing with the farmers and making speeches in cities of small towns When election day was over, it was found he had won by a majority of more than 29000 despite the fact that Kansas normally was overwhelmingly Republican

He set a record in vetoing bills He most of them were measures which he contends would have increased the peoples tax burdens

Davis blames the present tariff schedules for a lot of the farmer troubles He is opposed to tax exempt securities He favors the constitutional amendment permitting the conscription of wealth as well as men in time of war

He and Mrs Davis have three children

But after them, Speck come next in the governor's affections

'She's a mighty fine cow,' he declares And the grass of the White House lawn wouldn't be a bit too good for her'

FABLES ON HEALTH

The strenuosity of daily life often caused Mr Mann of Anytown to ponder more than a little He had many friends who succumbed to the strain and sought the advice of a shrewd friend on how to keep a healthy state of mind, as well as of body

The relationship of state of mind to general health is a subject that fills many volumes, but these few brief fundamentals were prescribed for Mr Mann

1—Don't run away from emotions Don't fight them Accept them as the wellsprings of action

2—Try to be efficient

3—Make decisions that you can stand by and that won't bother you afterward In other words have your decisions clean cut

4—Hurry isn't a necessity

5—Do things without calling out any more reserve energy than is necessary Economize on energy

6—Get a combination of work and play, of rest and exercise and entertainment

7—Don't worry

Georgia Lady Says She Has Grown Stronger by Taking Cardui—Thoroughly Convinced of Its Merits.

Clyattville, Ga.—In a statement which she gave at her home on R. F. D. 1, here, Mrs. T. A. Copeland said:

"I have, I believe, avoided a good deal of suffering by the use of Cardui, and am thoroughly convinced that it has been of great benefit to me.

"Before the birth of two of my children, I grew so weak and nervous I could hardly go, and suffered . . . I had a friend who told me of Cardui, so the next time when I grew so weak and run-down I began to use it. I used it three months. I grew stronger and less nervous. The baby was stronger and a better baby, and I really believe it was because I built up my strength with this splendid tonic."

Cardui has been in successful use for more than forty years. Thousands of women have written to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others.

It is a mild, harmless, purely vegetable medicinal preparation—a product of practical experience, scientific investigation and pharmaceutical skill Sold everywhere. NC-159
